FOCUS TRACK: Graphic Design and Advertising

Rooted in theory and fostered by technology, the Art, Design and Interactive Multimedia (ADIM) program prepares students to be design thinkers and visual communicators. The Graphic Design and Advertising track teaches students to create conceptual, visual solutions for commercial and social applications. Students learn to combine typography, imagery, and color to communicate, educate, inspire, persuade or entertain. Courses are project-based and taught in a studio environment focusing on various mediums including print and web.

Many ADIM majors join the College's chapter of American Institute of Graphic Arts (AIGA), advancing their portfolios by contributing to pro bono design projects and participating in collaborative meetings that cultivate esteem for the creative arts.
