"One particularly impressive and satisfying aspect of this trip has been the physical, material access we've had to the ancient Christian tradition. It's one thing to sit at one's desk back home and study Christian philosophy and theology, and history, to try to apprehend Christian truths through an intellectual approach. It's quite another to walk around Oxford, to marvel at Canterbury Cathedral, and to experience, to physically enter into, the living history of the Church, the Christian culture." ~Seton Hall student
