

Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology

CETH 6407

Catholic Social Teaching

Course for
Fall 2015

Day: Monday

Time: 8:30 – 11:15 AM

Location: Alfieri Hall

Lewis Hall
Seton Hall University
400 South Orange Avenue
South Orange, NJ 07079

Phone: (973) 761-9633
Website: theology.shu.edu
Email: theology@shu.edu

Professor: Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D.

This course will explore theological aspects of Catholic social justice ministry, its scriptural foundations, and its major principles as articulated in papal and episcopal documents. The application of these principles are aimed towards family, work, economic systems, and political orders. An examination of how local churches and parishes can become effective instruments in bringing about God's reign of peace and justice will be made as well.

Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Moral Theology, earned both his Ph.D. and M.Phil. from the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Louvain). Dr. Anderson's current research focuses on Aquinas's conception of virtue, the role it plays in his overall moral science, and the potential dialogue between that historically conditioned moral science and contemporary virtue ethics. His research also extends to the rational grounding for the existence of intrinsically evil actions, moral object and intentionality, and the philosophical basis for the social principles of Catholic social teaching. Dr. Anderson is a member of Centre de Hautes Études et de Recherches sur Thomas D'Aquin and the American Catholic Philosophical Association. He is a consultant for "Aquinas and 'the Arabs' International Working Group. His courses include Fundamental Moral Theology, Catholic Social Teaching, The Ethics of Virtue, Moral Evil and Moral Absolutes, and Secularism and Catholicism.

Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology

CETH 6205

Healthcare Ethics

Course for
Fall 2015

Days: Monday & Wednesday

Time: 11:30 AM – 12:45 PM

Location: Alfieri Hall

Lewis Hall
Seton Hall University
400 South Orange Avenue
South Orange, NJ 07079

Phone: (973) 761-9633
Website: theology.shu.edu
Email: theology@shu.edu

Professor: Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D.

In this course, students will develop skills in using Catholic Church teaching and Natural Law argumentation by examining the concepts of health, the human person, personal and social responsibility, confidentiality, reproductive technologies, abortion, medical research, experimentation, transplants, psychotherapy, addiction, suicide, euthanasia, and care of the disabled, those with AIDS and the dying.

Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Moral Theology, earned both his Ph.D. and M.Phil. from the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Louvain). Dr. Anderson's current research focuses on Aquinas's conception of virtue, the role it plays in his overall moral science, and the potential dialogue between that historically conditioned moral science and contemporary virtue ethics. His research also extends to the rational grounding for the existence of intrinsically evil actions, moral object and intentionality, and the philosophical basis for the social principles of Catholic social teaching. Dr. Anderson is a member of Centre de Hautes Études et de Recherches sur Thomas D'Aquin and the American Catholic Philosophical Association. He is a consultant for "Aquinas and 'the Arabs' International Working Group. His courses include Fundamental Moral Theology, Catholic Social Teaching, The Ethics of Virtue, Moral Evil and Moral Absolutes, and Secularism and Catholicism.

Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology

CETH/STHO 6259

Secularism and Catholicism

Course for Fall 2015

Days: Monday & Wednesday

Time: 1:30 - 2:45 PM

Location: Alfieri Hall

Lewis Hall
Seton Hall University
400 South Orange Avenue
South Orange, NJ 07079

Phone: (973) 761-9633
Website: theology.shu.edu
Email: theology@shu.edu

Professor: Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D.

This course investigates the historical causes, nature, and value of secularism as a cultural, and socio-political phenomenon affecting Catholic religious experience in what was once called Latin Christendom. The course is not only interested in secularism as such, but also in various contemporary Catholic responses towards it. Throughout the investigation will be viewed through the theological lens of Christian faith as revealed in Jesus Christ and authoritatively interpreted through the teaching authority of the Church.

Justin M. Anderson, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Moral Theology, earned both his Ph.D. and M.Phil. from the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Louvain). Dr. Anderson's current research focuses on Aquinas's conception of virtue, the role it plays in his overall moral science, and the potential dialogue between that historically conditioned moral science and contemporary virtue ethics. His research also extends to the rational grounding for the existence of intrinsically evil actions, moral object and intentionality, and the philosophical basis for the social principles of Catholic social teaching. Dr. Anderson is a member of Centre de Hautes Études et de Recherches sur Thomas D'Aquin and the American Catholic Philosophical Association. He is a consultant for "Aquinas and 'the Arabs' International Working Group. His courses include Fundamental Moral Theology, Catholic Social Teaching, The Ethics of Virtue, Moral Evil and Moral Absolutes, and Secularism and Catholicism.

Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology

CETH/STHO 6114

The Problem of Evil

Course for
Fall 2015

Day: Monday

Time: 6:30 - 9:30 PM

Location: Alfieri Hall

Lewis Hall
Seton Hall University
400 South Orange Avenue
South Orange, NJ 07079

Phone: (973) 761-9633
Website: theology.shu.edu
Email: theology@shu.edu

Professor: Rev. Peter Albano, Ph.D.

This course begins with some reflections about experiences of evil in a globalized world, society and culture. The course then examines how Holy Scripture approaches the problem of evil. Systematic reflections follow, focusing on the theological question: "Why does the good and omnipotent God create the human being capable of evil?" Finally, the course presents Christ on the cross and in the resurrection.

Rev. Peter Albano, Ph.D., Adjunct Professor of Systematic Theology, received a Ph.D. in The Philosophy of Religion and Theology Claremont Graduate School in Claremont, California and has done post-graduate studies in Philosophy and Education at Columbia University in New York. He has previously taught courses such as The History of Philosophy; Engaging God in a Postmodern World; Religion, Science, and Technology; The Psychology of Religion; and Freedom, Fault, and Transcendence at various educational institutions across the United States.