Five-Year B.S. / M.A. Program in Diplomacy and International Relations

Seton Hall's accelerated B.S./M.A. program in Diplomacy and International Relations allows students at the School of Diplomacy to earn both a bachelor's and a master's degree in a five-year course of study.

ACCELERATED PROGRAM BENEFITS

- Complete your undergraduate and graduate degree in a total of 5 years
- Save the costs associated with one year of room and board plus 18 UG credits
- Enhance your professional development as you transition from undergraduate to graduate coursework with consistent mentorship from professors who are familiar with your goals and interests
- Solidify your career path with professional internships at both the undergraduate and graduate level
- Eliminate the necessary study time and costs of completing graduate admission testing and applications

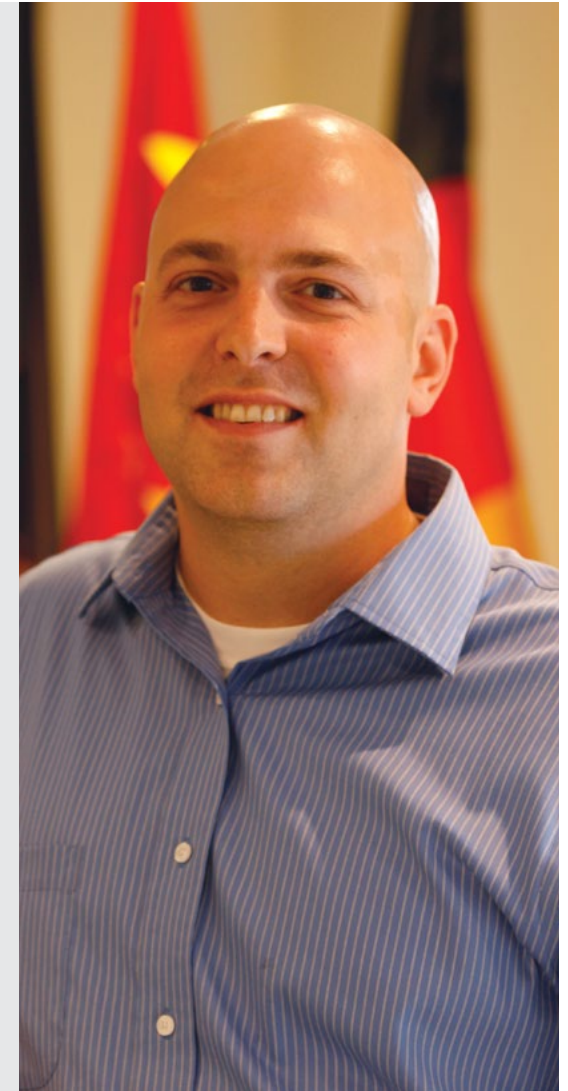

CURRICULUM

The total number of credits required for the B.S./M.A. program is 147, with 102 at the undergraduate level and 45 at the graduate level. Under this program model, the traditional requirements for the bachelor's degree are reduced by 18 credits to accommodate the accelerated timetable.

APPLY

Undergraduate Seton Hall Diplomacy students who have completed a minimum of 66 credit hours are eligible to apply. Acceptance is contingent upon submission of an application to the Office of Graduate Admissions, and earning an overall GPA of 3.2 or higher through the end of the first semester of their junior year. Accepted students begin the M.A. program in the fall of their fourth year.

Applications for the B.S./M.A. program are accessible online at www.shu.edu/academics/diplomacy/apply.cfm under "Prospective Graduate Student."

ABOUT THE SCHOOL OF DIPLOMACY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations at Seton Hall University prepares students from around the world to become leaders in a global society. Just minutes from New York City and a few hours from Washington, D.C., the School is an ideal place to study international relations and experience diplomacy firsthand in a professional, dynamic and culturally rich setting. Through a unique alliance with the United Nations Association of the United States of America and the United Nations Foundation, students are exposed to today's leaders and policymakers.

Students come together from throughout the United States and nearly 20 countries to participate in a multidisciplinary curriculum that emphasizes global studies, multilateral diplomacy, conflict resolution, international economics and leadership. A distinguished faculty of scholars and professionals bring essential theories and practical perspectives to the classroom. With a growing network of alumni working in the field of international relations, the School is strengthening international institutions by contributing well-prepared and talented diplomatic professionals.
