INNOVATIVE, INTERDISCIPLINARY

The LEEL program offers a unique curriculum designed to provide and develop executive leadership competencies for students interested in law enforcement. Practitioners acquire the necessary skills and tools to analyze complex public sector challenges, such as releasing public statements, crisis management, internal affairs, police reformation and managing the day-to-day operations of public agencies.

The program is based at The College of Human Development, Culture and Media (CHDCM), a singular place for interdisciplinary learning focused on innovation along the continuum of human development. Integrating the exceptional faculty and dynamic, cross-disciplinary curricula, the College strives to improve the human condition by collaborating across distinct fields that uniquely complement one another.
