

Launch a career that makes a difference

Make a great impact on the lives of others with an education degree from Seton Hall. Whether you want to teach elementary, early childhood, secondary, speech-language pathology or special education, you'll become a sought-after educator. Our graduates enjoy a 100% employment rate and a 100% acceptance rate to graduate school. Many of our graduates are respected teachers, principals and superintendents in the area and beyond.

Much of that success is a result of our commitment to hands-on learning. Our students complete more hours of teaching practicum than any other college or university in the state. Starting sophomore year, you'll complete four long-term placements in a variety of school settings so you have the experience to excel in your own classroom someday.

You also have the option of earning two degrees in just six years. Our signature 4+2 combined program in speech-language pathology allows you complete your bachelor's in education, then earn your master's in speech-language pathology from our School of Health and Medical Sciences.

The advantages of a Seton Hall education don't end there. You'll enjoy small classes, work with faculty on research, and have the opportunity to study in countries like Argentina, China, France, Italy and Japan.

With opportunities like these, great minds like you can accomplish anything.

"I wanted to pursue a major where I could live a life of service, be a leader and still help people. When I first came to Seton Hall, I wasn't sure about a career in education. I remember meeting with one of my mentors, Education Professor Mary Mueller, Ed.D. She helped me to connect my two passions: teaching and service. I don't think that I would be the same teacher that I am today without Seton Hall."

Hands-On Learning

At Seton Hall, you'll develop your skills and résumé — with countless hands-on learning opportunities. You can produce shows in our state-of-the-art television studio, work on cutting-edge research with your professors or start developing your own product idea. Many of our students also gain real-world experience by studying and interning in places like China, India and Portugal. Others write for our award-winning newspaper, The Setonian, or produce a show for our #1 ranked college radio station in the country, WSOU, or track public opinion at the Seton Hall Sports Polling Center. In and out of the classroom, great minds keep learning.

Internships and Career Opportunities

Here, you'll get a head start on a great career. We offer extensive career services few schools can rival. A dedicated career adviser will start working with you freshman year, and you can take advantage of more than 17,000 internship opportunities from a school ranked #4 in the nation for providing internships. It's why we have a 92% employment rate and our graduate mid-career earnings are 50% higher than the national average. Of our internship providers, 98% say they would hire our graduates if they had an opening — because they know when they hire a Seton Hall graduate, they're getting the best talent in the field.
