Professor: Rev. Thomas G. Guarino, S.T.D.

This Capstone course, which is required for all M.A. in Theology general format students, will help the student synthesize the various disciplines and perspectives integral to advanced theological education. Students will have an opportunity to develop a Seminar topic in their chosen field of study.

Rev. Thomas G. Guarino, S.T.D., Professor of Systematic Theology, received an S.T.L. and an S.T.D. at The Catholic University of America. His current research focuses on the area at the borderline of philosophy and theology. His teaching seeks to communicate to students the richness of the Catholic intellectual tradition while highlighting the intense commitment of Catholicism to ecumenical and inter-religious dialogue, and, indeed, to fruitful and charitable exchanges with all men and women, regardless of belief.
