THE BERNARD J. LONERGAN INSTITUTE AT SETON HALL UNIVERSITY
ANNOUNCES THE LAUNCH OF ITS JOURNAL
*The Lonergan Review

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. – The Bernard J. Lonergan Institute at Seton Hall University announces the launch of its journal The Lonergan Review.

This first issue, Vol. I, No. 1, Fall 2009, edited by Msgr. Richard Liddy, Director of the Center for Catholic Studies and the Bernard J. Lonergan Institute, brings together the proceedings of a seminar on Lonergan's thought held at the Università del Sacro Cuore at Piacenza, Italy in 2008. This seminar's aim highlighted the general empirical method at the basis of the various methods in the curriculum: mathematics, biology, art, history, education, philosophy, theology.

Highlights of this issue, Vol. I, No. 1, June 2009 include:

- "Method and Curriculum" by Lucio Guasti
- "Method in Saint Thomas" by Andrew Beards
- "Method in Philosophy" by Valter Danna
- "Method in Economics" by Michele Tomasi
- and others...

The mission of The Lonergan Review is to link explicit self-knowledge with the various academic disciplines and professions. By doing this, it seeks to foster authentic human cultures of high ideals, the Catholic intellectual tradition, and service of the poor. To purchase a copy of The Lonergan Review, or to learn more about it, call (973) 275-2431 or e-mail: lonerganinstitute@shu.edu

ABOUT THE BERNARD J. LONERGAN INSTITUTE

Bernard Lonergan, S.J. (1904-84) was a twentieth-century Catholic philosopher and theologian whom Newsweek magazine cited as among "the finest philosophical thinkers of the 20th century.” In November 2006, the Center for Catholic Studies at Seton Hall University launched the Bernard J. Lonergan Institute dedicated to the study of his ideas and their application in contemporary culture. The Institute is directed by Msgr. Richard M. Liddy and contains: all Lonergan’s published works; copies of his most significant unpublished writing; doctoral dissertations on Lonergan’s work; the most significant secondary literature on Lonergan; Lonergan “memorabilia” including letters and photos housed in a display case. Please visit the Institute’s website at: <http://www.shu.edu/catholic-mission/lonergan/index.cfm>

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR CATHOLIC STUDIES

Dedicated to a dialogue between the Catholic intellectual tradition and all areas of contemporary culture, Seton Hall University's Center for Catholic Studies conducts an undergraduate degree program in Catholic Studies, offering a major, minor, certificate program and foreign study opportunities. In addition to presenting programs on faith and culture for students, faculty and the public, the Center incorporates the Bernard J. Lonergan Institute, the Micah Institute for Business and Economics, and the G.K. Chesterton Institute for Faith & Culture, with its prestigious journal, The Chesterton Review.
