This course consists of three one-hour meetings in which new students are instructed on effective study habits, on the use of the libraries and their resources, on the manner of conducting theological research and on the strategies and standards for composing research papers. Students are required to take this within the first three semesters of matriculation into a degree program.

Stella Wilkins, MA, MLS, Librarian, has worked for the Seminary for more than 20 years. She provides reference services to students and faculty and teaches Research Seminar, a course for which she is co-coordinator.
