Our Mission

The Joseph A. Unanue Latino Institute at Seton Hall University advances, educates, and transforms students into the next generation of servant leaders in our ever-changing global society. The Joseph A. Unanue Latino Institute seeks to develop outstanding leaders in science, business, the arts, and public service through scholarship, mentorship and cultural programs.

The Institute was created through a generous gift from our benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph and Carmen Ana Unanue. Built on a rich legacy of service to the Seton Hall Latino community, the Joseph A. Unanue Latino Institute had its genesis as the Puerto Rican Institute, founded in the early 1970’s. Back then and now, our Catholic faith leads us as we aim to fulfill two intertwined missions, that of service and scholarship. The Institute offers excellent programs, available to all Seton Hall undergraduate and graduate students.

¡Bienvenidos!

It is my sincerest pleasure to welcome you to La Gala, The Joseph A. Unanue Latino Institute’s annual event that raises funds for student scholarships. When Joseph and Carmen Ana Unanue founded the Institute, it was their vision that it would become a beacon of excellence within the University.

With the Institute’s support and guidance, students can fulfill their potential as servant leaders through cultural programming, designed to build stronger linkages to their heritage but also through education, academic scholarship, mentorship, skill development and critical thinking. The Institute’s scholars are leaders on-campus and, with the opportunity, knowledge and experience they gain as scholars, go on to achieve accomplished careers.

I am proud to share that since 2007, the Institute has awarded over $1.3-million in scholarships. As an alumna of Seton Hall University and, recipient of the Institute’s scholarship, I understand first-hand how the Institute changes the lives of its students.

I encourage you to learn about our scholars tonight, many who are in-attendance. Their journey to complete their studies is made possible by every single one of you.

Thank you.

Dear Friends,

I am pleased to welcome you to the Joseph A. Unanue Latino Institute's 2019 gala. Tonight we gather to celebrate Latino culture, cheer its growing influence in the United States and around the world, and honor three individuals who personify its advancing stature.

Seton Hall is proud of its association with the Unanue Latino Institute. An indispensable center for cultivating the next generation of Latino leaders, it has offered vital programming, transformative scholarships, essential mentorships and worthwhile service opportunities since 2005.

Thanks to your support, the institute will add new dimensions to its time-honored mission, and in so doing, uphold the legacy of its namesake benefactors, Joseph and Carmen Ana Unanue. I am grateful that you share Seton Hall’s commitment to the institute and join you in congratulating this year’s honorees: Stacie deArmas, Claudia Romo Edelman and Jeffrey Martinez.

You have my best wishes for a joyous La Gala!

Sincerely,

Joseph E. Nyre, Ph.D.
President

Masters of Ceremony

RAFAEL A. PACHECO

Rafael Antonio Pacheco is a first generation American from Cuban decent. He was born and raised in Union City, NJ and eventually left for college where he graduated from La Salle University in Philadelphia, PA with a degree in Biology & Psychology.

His artistic career began as a young teenager at one of North Jersey’s most prestigious dance academies: Oneida’s Dance Studio in Guttenberg, NJ. It was there that he was exposed to different styles of dance, which included Salsa, Tango, Hip-hop, Tap, Flamenco and Afro-Cuban. He spent over 10 years developing his dance skills and competing on a national level earning him numerous awards, medals and a dance scholarship from Dance Educators of America. His most celebrated work with ODS was in 2004 with his portrayal of “El Santero” in El Solar de Caramelo. In 2013 he danced his way onto the hit HBO show Boardwalk Empire, then continued making television appearances on Scorned: Love Kills, True Crimes with Aphrodite Jones and The Perfect Murder. In 2014 he got a taste of New York theater when he landed a lead role playing “Antonio” in Michelangelo Alasa’s Adrift. In 2015 Rafael was casted in his first film role as “Lee” in Joshua Nelson’s short film Amidst The Wolves. He has worked diligently in the television and radio commercial world starring in a series of projects most notably for T Mobile, Food Network, Gillette, Mercedes Benz, Stanley Steamer and PC Richard & Sons.

In 2017 Rafael joined Telemundo 47 as a presenter doing field coverage for various events, and recording Goya segments for Acceso Total. He is currently preparing his return to the NY stage, starring in My Fidel, an original musical based on a true story which is set to premiere in the spring of 2020.

Masters of Ceremony

ADRIANA VARGAS

Adriana Vargas is an Emmy award-winning Colombian journalist and news anchor for New York’s WXTV Univision 41 Nueva York with over 20 years of experience covering major worldwide events and breaking news stories.

From a young age, while still studying Social Communication and Journalism at the Universidad Javeriana in Bogotá (Colombia), she started her career as a journalist and presenter of short news sections for regional channels in Colombia. Adriana’s career would go onto include roles at Señal Colombia, Caracol TV news magazine Séptimo Día, RCN TV, Noticias RCN, and opinion news magazine La noche.

After briefly serving as spokeswoman and International Media Director for Colombian President Juan Manuel Santos, Vargas joined the Univision station. Today she continues to be one of the most recognized and celebrated news anchors in the New York Tri-State area for her nightly role on Noticias Univision 41 at 6pm and 11pm.
STACIE M. DE ARMAS

Stacie M. de Armas is Vice President Strategic Initiatives and a Leader within Nielsen’s Diversity & Inclusion practice. She is a researcher, consumer behaviorist, thought leader and subject matter expert on the U.S. Hispanic market. Stacie is responsible for researching, uncovering and sharing insights on the power of the Hispanic consumer with brands, media companies, advocacy groups and policy makers.

She joined Nielsen in 1998 and has served in many roles related to multicultural marketing, but Hispanic market intelligence is her passion.

Stacie sits on the Cultural Marketing Council Board of Directors and has been the recipient of industry honors; most recently named among the most powerful and influential Latinos in entertainment by Imagen Foundation in 2019.

Stacie is an adjunct professor of qualitative research at California State University Los Angeles and, when forced to make a decision, she will always choose tostones over maduros as long as it is served with a Materva. She received her Masters degree in Business Administration with a focus on marketing from Texas A & M.

Stacie is first generation Cubana and lives in Los Angeles with her two children, where Cubans represent less than ½ of one percent (38%) of the population! Most of her family resides in Miami, her second home, where Cubans make up about 19% of the population #Adelante!
