ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

As Senior Associate Dean, Associate Dean, and Associate Dean of Academic Affairs:

- Academic: administer the School's curricula and assist with their further development; maintain and implement the academic policies and procedures of the School; approve semester and summer course schedules; serve as the School's representative on University committees dealing with academic affairs; prepare School reports and documents for the Provost's Office and the Division of Academic Affairs

- Faculty: support the faculty and dean in the hiring of full-time and adjunct faculty, including handling negotiations and paperwork; mentor and aid the professional development of School faculty; approve faculty travel for scholarship; advise faculty on tenure/promotion, research grants, and sabbaticals
- Students: coordinate undergraduate and graduate student services with the School's administrative team; handle complex advising situations including incoming, transfer, and graduating students along with study abroad, internships, dual degrees, and double majors; monitor student academic progress; supervise graduate recruitment and assist with undergraduate recruitment by conducting information sessions and meeting with prospective students; serve as an advisor for various student organizations and initiatives
- Administrative: develop the School's budget in collaboration with the dean; manage School expenses and revenue, including budget paperwork; handle personnel matters for the School; facilitate programming for a new building for the School; guide strategic planning efforts for the School; supervise projects and perform other tasks for the dean as needed
- External: assist the dean in managing and enhancing our strategic partnerships, especially with the United Nations community, the School's Board of Overseers, and other academic institutions; supervise the School's marketing and communications staff; promote School and University efforts to bring speakers and other events to campus; develop potential off-site locations for School courses and programs

As Director of the United Nations Intensive Summer Study Program:

- Program Development: designed an innovative one-week program that immerses students in the political dynamics of the United Nations by having them participate in briefings with UN delegates and staff and attend official UN meetings; direct the program for all 18 sessions over the past 17 years
- Partnerships: develop and maintain relationships with School partners in the program including the United Nations Association of the USA and the United Nations Foundation; work with various UN offices and missions to arrange for speakers, meeting access, and conference rooms at UN headquarters
- Pedagogy: manage all academic components of the program, including speaker topics, reading lists, and discussion sessions; develop all course assignments and conduct student and program assessment; provide background briefings before student interaction with each practitioner and conduct follow-up debriefings
- Recruitment: advertise the program to potential participants within and outside of Seton Hall, including internationally; review application materials from advanced undergraduate and graduate students and mid-career professionals; coordinate admissions decisions; enroll approximately 40 participants in each program (for 730 total to date), typically two-thirds drawn from other universities and one-quarter from overseas
