ABOUT SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

One of the country's leading Catholic universities, Seton Hall University has been a catalyst for leadership — developing students in mind, heart and spirit — since 1856. Home to nearly 10,000 undergraduate and graduate students and offering more than 90 academic programs, Seton Hall's academic excellence has been singled out for distinction by The Princeton Review, U.S. News & World Report and Bloomberg Businessweek.

An undergraduate student-to-faculty ratio of 14:1 and an average class size of 21 provide a truly supportive educational environment; students enjoy hands-on guidance from a world-class faculty that includes Fulbright scholars, cutting-edge researchers, industry leaders and former ambassadors. Dozens of Seton Hall students have been chosen for highly selective national and international awards in recent years, including Rhodes, Fulbright, Pickering and Udall scholarships.

Seton Hall, which embraces students of all religions, has a deep commitment to the Catholic intellectual tradition and prepares its graduates to be exemplary servant leaders and caring global citizens. The university offers superior experiential opportunities for career development before and after graduation. More than 75 percent of students participate in an internship, practicum or clinical program to gain professional experience; the university also boasts a career-related job placement rate approximately 20 percent above the national average and an international alumni network more than 90,000 strong.

Seton Hall combines the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. The university's attractive main campus is located in suburban South Orange, New Jersey, and is only 14 miles by train, bus or car from New York City, offering a wealth of employment, internship, cultural and entertainment opportunities. Its nationally recognized School of Law is prominently located in downtown Newark. A founding member of the new Big East Conference, the Seton Hall Pirates field 14 NCAA Division I varsity sports teams.
